

Cabinet Making: Instructors

Introduction/Overview | Curriculum Requirements | Student Learning Outcomes | Skills & Proficiencies | Instructors | Occupational Outlook

The Lee College Huntsville Center (LCHC) cabinet making instructors are master carpenters with many years of experience in all phases of cabinet making and woodworking construction. Students are exposed to heavy hands-on use of the tools and equipment utilized for this type of construction trade training.

Freddy Koehl and Jason Turner are recognized as industry professionals who teach students a challenging course curriculum. They have a combined 30 years of industry experience and 23 years of cabinet making teaching experience at the college level.
