Distance Learning

Is Distance Learning for you?

-Take this survey and find out!

People have a variety of reasons for taking distance learning courses, but these classes are not for everyone. Take the 10-question survey below that explores time management and self-discipline skills needed to maintain steady progress throughout the semester.

My need to take this course is:

High -I need to take it immediately3
Moderate - I could take it later2
Low - It could be postponed1

Feeling I am part of a class is

Not necessary3
Somewhat important2
Very important1

I would classify myself as someone who:

Does things ahead of time3
Needs reminding2
Does things at the last minute1

Classroom discussion is:

Rarely helpful to me3
Sometimes helpful2
Almost always helpful1

When I get assignment directions, I:

Want to figure them out myself3
Try to figure them out, then ask for help2
Need to have them explained to me1

I need faculty comments on assignments:

Within a few weeks so I can review3
Within a few days or I'll forget2
Right away, or I'll get frustrated1

The time I can spend on Distance Learning Classes is:

More than for an on-campus course3
The same as for an on-campus course2
Less than for an on-campus course1

Coming to campus is:

Extremely difficult3
A little difficult2
Easy for me1

As a reader, I am:

Good, I understand text without help3
Average, I sometimes need help understanding2
Less than average1

When I need help understanding, I:

Am comfortable asking the instructor3
Am uncomfortable, but do it anyway2
Never approach the instructor1

Add your score and if you scored 20 or over, a distance learning course is a real possibility for you. If you scored between 11 and 20, distance learning courses may work for you, but you may need to make a few adjustments in your schedule and study habits to succeed. If you scored 10, distance learning may not currently be the best alternative for you: Talk with your counselor.

Frequently Asked Questions

Can anyone take a Distance Learning course? Yes, the admission requirements are the same as for other Lee College classes. Distance Learning students have the same rights, privileges, and obligations as classroom students.

Do I get the same credit? Will it transfer? Yes, the credit is the same. Distance Learning courses will transfer the same as classroom sections of the course.

Is there a limit on how many Distance Learning courses I can take? Yes, complete degrees are not available online at Lee College. Also, there is a maximum number of hours that can be taken each term, just like classroom courses.

Does a Distance Learning course cost more? Yes, there is a fee of $50 for each course.

Does a Distance Learning course take as much time as a classroom course? Is it easier? Is it harder? The same material is covered in both types of classes. You can expect to spend as much time or more as you would in classroom courses.

May I go through the course at my own pace? May I go faster than specified? May I take exams when I want to? Distance Learning courses have deadlines for taking exams and turning in assignments.

How long do I have to complete the course? Distance Learning courses must be finished by the end of the semester, the same as classroom courses.

If I need additional help in my Distance Learning course, what do I do? Always contact your instructor first. Don't be afraid to ask for help. Your instructor can assist you directly or for additional assistance there are tutors, counselors, and other support services.

Tips for Success

Seek the assistance of a counselor to plan your distance education classes if you are a new student or have not passed the Texas Success Initiative. Call 281-425-6384 to set up an appointment, or drop by the Counseling Center in Moler Hall on the Baytown campus.

Register for distance education classes as you would for any other course. Distance Learning classes require a $50 fee. If you're taking a course through VCT, use the Lee College registration number assigned to your section; it will be sent to you via e-mail. (See the section about the Virtual College of Texas for more information on VCT courses.)

Contact your instructor for a course orientation to receive handouts and deadlines. Read the course note regarding specific orientation requirements. Students are required by law to be actively involved in their courses by the day of record (for 16-week classes, the 12th class day; for 12-week classes, the 9th day; for 6-week classes, the 4th day; and for 3-week classes, the 2nd day).

Meet course deadlines as you would for any course. Instructors schedule assignment and exam dates for all distance learning sections just as they do for traditional classes. Course handouts should specify these deadlines and requirements.

Begin immediately to fulfill requirements by developing a personal schedule to pace your work and remain actively involved until all work is completed. If no work has been completed by mid-term, you may receive an "F" for the course or be dropped for non-attendance. Students are not free to wait until the last few weeks of the term to complete an entire semester's work.

Call the Counseling Center at 281-425-6384 or the Chief Academic Officer's office at 281-425-6445 for more information about distance learning.
