Welcome to Lee College

Congratulations on your decision to further your education and career goals at Lee College. I am thrilled to be one of the first to welcome you to our community. We are deeply proud of you for taking the step to attend college, and we are excited and thankful you selected us as your institution of higher education. As a Navigator, you have embarked on an exciting and rewarding experience at Lee College. This is the beginning of a great adventure; a journey of self-discovery that will help shape the pathway of your future.

Lee College has many support services and people available that can help you with homework, registering for classes, and even childcare. In addition, we offer various financial support such as scholarships and financial aid that can help you prioritize your studies. Whatever your interests are and whatever your personal situation is, we stand ready to help make your educational goals a reality!

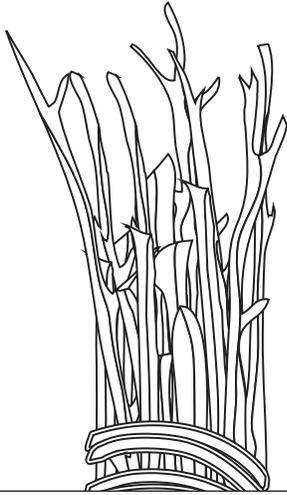

You may be fresh out of high school, or you may be returning to school after years in the workforce. You may be a single parent, a veteran, or you may be the first in your family to attend college. Whatever your background and story is, you belong here at Lee College, and we are honored to be part of your story. We cannot wait to see what is ahead for you and we will be cheering you on all the way!

Sincerely,

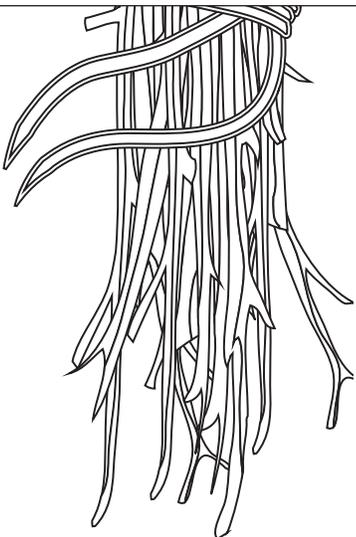

Dr. Lynda Villanueva
President

College Terminology

Academic Advisor- A professional who provides guidance on course enrollment, academic progress, and graduation.

Associate Degree- an undergraduate degree awarded after a course of post-secondary study lasting two to three years

Bachelor's Degree- an undergraduate academic degree awarded by colleges and universities upon completion of a course of study lasting three to six years.

Blackboard- Lee College's online learning management system where you will find your course materials, monitor course grades, and submit course assignments.

Certificate- a shorter program that concentrates on a specific field of expertise rather than an entire course of study. Certificates can be anywhere from 12 to 36 credits in length.

Credit Hour- the number of hours assigned to a course, which often reflects the approximate time spent in class per week.

Co-Requisite- a course that must be taken at the same time as another course.

Dropping a class- Unenrolling in a course. Dropping a class will give you a 'w.'

Full-time Enrollment- enrollment in a minimum of 12 credits or about four classes per semester.

Grade Point Average (GPA)- How well a student is academically performing. Calculate a GPA by dividing the number of grade points by credit hours completed.

Graduate Student- When a student is pursuing a master's or doctoral degree.

Grants- Free money that you do not have to pay back. It is mostly based on financial needs.

Part-time Enrollment- enrollment in less than 12 credits per semester.

Prerequisite- A course that must be completed before taking another course.

Registrar- An individual or an officer who oversees your academic record at the university.

Resignation- Withdrawing from all courses for the semester. No "w" will be given.

Scholarships- Free money that students do not need to pay back.

Student/Office Hours- Faculty are available in their office to meet with students.

Subsidized Stafford Loan- the government will pay the interest until you enter the repayment period.

Syllabus- A document that describes important information about a course, including; office hours, required books or materials, assignments, due dates, grading scales, procedures, and policies.

Undergraduate Student- When a student is pursuing a certificate, associate, or bachelor's degree.

Unsubsidized Stafford Loans- The interest starts building the day the loan is taken out; It is not based on financial need.

Getting Started on the Right Foot

Whether this is your first semester, or you are a returning student, we are proud that you have chosen Lee College to be part of your educational journey. We believe you can succeed at Lee College and are here to help you along the way! Some helpful tips to get started:

- Accessing Blackboard, myLC, and your myLC email account is critical to your success. Check these systems at least once per day during the semester. You can access blackboard and your student email through Onelogin.
- Your username and password are the same for all accounts.
- Your username is typically made up of the 1st two letters of your first name + 1st two letters of your last name + your complete student ID number (including leading zeros). Example Username: jado0123456
- Your default password will be the letters Stu# followed by the four-digit year of your birth. During the first login, you will be prompted to reset your password. Example Password: Stu#2000

Technical Support

MyLC Helpdesk - Help logging in or resetting your password:

- helpdesk@lee.edu
- 281.425.6952

Blackboard Helpline- Help with Blackboard issues:

- 281.425.6364
- Monday-Thursday: 10 a.m. - 3 p.m.; 6 - 9 p.m.
- Saturday: 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Important Support for Your Academic Success

Course textbooks and utilizing learning support services, like tutoring, supplemental instruction, and the writing center, are especially important for your success in college.

MyBooks

MyBooks is an all-access course materials program allowing you to have your materials by the first day of class. The “MyBooks Fee” of $27.50 per semester credit hour will be included on your bill when you register for classes. If you do not wish to participate in myBooks, you must opt out for each semester by logging into myLC campus and selecting the appropriate opt-out/back-in link.

The following supports are already included in your tuition and fees:

Writing Center

Writing Center provides tutors that can help you understand writing assignments, brainstorm ideas, resolve grammar issues, and assist with works cited and citations.

Learning Hub

Peer educator services such as tutoring, Supplemental Instruction, and Peer Mentoring are offered in various courses such as Accounting, Biology, Chemistry, Economics, History, Government, Math, and Process Technology.

- Visit the Student Center

First Semester Goals

As you begin your first semester making a few goals can be helpful.

A goal is something desired, yet often challenging to attain. When making goals, it can be helpful to make them SMART.

Specific: An effective goal should be specific, leaving no room for confusion.

Measurable: Your goal should be easy to track, so you know when you hit a benchmark or the finish line.

Achievable: You must be realistic and determine if your specific goal is truly achievable, or an unrealistic ask.

Relevant: Does the goal you're setting contribute to your bigger overarching goals? Ensure you're setting goals that contribute to what you want in life.

Time-bound: SMART objective goals should have defined start and end times.

Week 1: _____

As a student, it is very important that you stay up to date with your class schedule and maintain regular communication with your faculty members.

Class Schedules

Your current class schedule can be found in your MyLC account. Your schedule provides important information on the date and time of your classes, class location, and your assigned faculty.

Syllabi

Did you know that your course syllabi include your course schedule, course expectations, and contact information for your faculty members? Your syllabi can be found in Blackboard and on the Lee College webpage.

Communication with Faculty

Many people at Lee College, including your faculty, are invested in your well-being and success. It is very important to stay in communication with your instructors and to reach out to them with any questions or concerns. Here are several ways you can contact them, and they do like to hear from you:

- MyLC email (be sure to identify yourself by name in the email)
- Blackboard messaging
- Other contact information that is listed on the course syllabus

Remember, we are here for you and encourage you to reach out if you have any questions, concerns, or needs!

Navigator Alerts

Lee College has a state-of-the-art notification system. This system is set up to send you vital information: emergency alerts such as campus closings and weather advisories, as well as urgent messages regarding registration and financial aid.

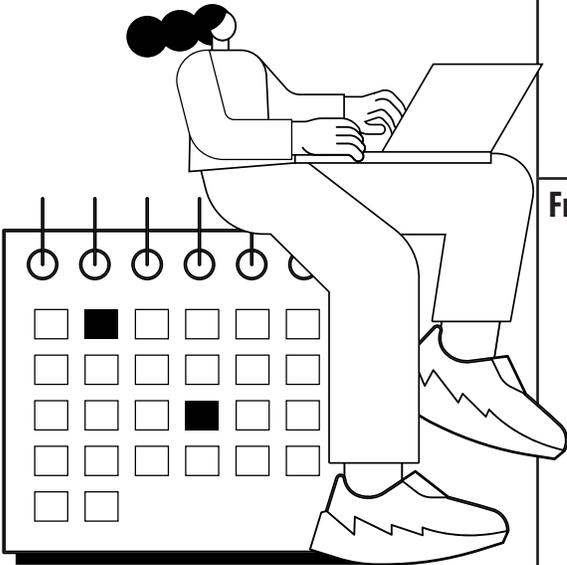

These messages are important. Please take the time to register. Simply sign up using the link in the QR code. You will need to have your cell phone turned on to complete the process.

Week 5: _____

Time Management

Are you feeling exhausted thinking about the lectures, assignments, tests, and homework piling up?

You may be feeling academic burnout. Academic burnout is a feeling of being overwhelmed with work which may result in anxiety and exhaustion and can lead to a decrease in motivation. It is typically caused by a mixture of personal and school life pressures. Often as students, we have pressure to prove we are enough and therefore will take on more than our plate can handle. Proper time management and a healthy work-life balance is one way to prevent academic burnout.

Self-Reflection

Remember what you have learned about self-regulated learning, which is a cyclical process, wherein you prepare for a task, monitor your performance, and then reflect on the outcome. The cycle then repeats as you reflect and adjust for the next task. Take a few minutes and reflect on your classes for the last month.

What was one success you had?

We are educators!

At Lee College, we believe everyone on campus is an educator. This includes the Faculty, Staff, and Administrators, but also you as a student. Below are our priorities as a college.

1

Safety

When we become aware of an unsafe situation, we will immediately apply procedures and training to take action to resolve the situation.

Courtesy

At every touchpoint, we will demonstrate respect, make others feel welcome, and guide others to appropriate resources.

Wellbeing

We care about each other as people, so we are empathetic to everyone's needs and purposes by reading their social cues, being active listeners, and responding in an appropriate manner to help them when they are in need.

4

Growth

We help each other grow intellectually, professionally and personally by breaking barriers and equipping them with the necessary tools.

5

Efficiency

We seek to integrate policies and procedures that maximize productivity and the use of available resources.

Student Engagement

Did you know that students involved in activities outside the classroom are more likely to be successful academically? Lee College offers a variety of ways for you to get involved and connect with peers.

More than 20 student clubs and organizations can be found on campus. These include social, cultural, scholastic, political, and religious gatherings and are organized to provide students with the most visible and accessible path to campus involvement. Have an idea for a club? Gather some friends and visit the Student Activities Office in the Student Center.

TRiO SSS Program

Lee College has a Student Support Services program designed to help increase its participants' college retention and graduation rates and facilitate transfers to four-year universities. Students who fit one or more of the following are invited to visit the TRiO office and learn more.

- Being a first-generation college student (neither of your parents completed a four-year college or university (bachelor's) degree).
- Having financial need.
- Having a disability.
- Academic need includes, but is not limited to, any of the following: low college GPA, low Accuplacer test scores, earned GED, or out of school for five years or more.

Working While in School

For many college students, scholarships are not enough to cover the cost of going to school and living expenses. The reality is that you may have to work a part-time job to help make ends meet. Looking for a job on campus may be a great option. Student worker jobs work well with your academic schedule and understand that you are a student first. It can be difficult to balance work, school, and life all at the same time. The Career and Transfer Services Office provides many resources and programs to assist students in exploring career options and developing effective job search skills, enabling them to represent themselves to prospective employers professionally and ultimately attain their employment goals

Find your PATHWAY to success!

Committed to student success, Lee College’s academic programs are structured to provide a clear pathway to help ensure success in the classroom and beyond.

Lee College pathways offer a variety of connections from education to career. Many pathways lead to the completion of certificates and associate’s degrees for immediate employment. Other fields require further education and lead to transfer. Browse the options below for more information about careers and courses. Then talk to an advisor to customize your educational plan.

Can’t find the career or transfer school you are looking for? You are not limited to this list of pathways. Lee College advisors can help you plan for any career field or transfer school.

Week 13: _____

The end of the semester will be here before you know it! Now is a great time to utilize the many academic and learning support services offered at Lee College to prepare for the final stretch of the semester. Look back at page 8 of this book for more information about the Lee College Library, Writing Center, Math Lab, and Learning Hub!

Remember, everyone here at Lee College wants to see you succeed and we are here to support you! If things are stressful, reach out to the members of your success team you listed on page 4, or utilize any of the many resources provided by the college.

Student Conduct

Every student at Lee College has rights and responsibilities to ensure a safe and healthy environment to learn, work, and grow. You are responsible for understanding these rights and responsibilities presented on the Lee College webpage and in annual notices sent each semester via Lee College email.

Attendance at Lee College is a privilege based on students meeting certain academic requirements and conforming to college regulations concerning student behavior on campus and at off-campus activities sponsored by the College or student organizations.

Inspiration

The light at the end of the tunnel just got a bit brighter, and finals are just around the corner! Take the time to find your inspiration as you complete your first semester in college. What has helped motivate you to get to this moment? What inspires you to continue? How can you use this inspiration to keep your momentum? Write it down and keep it close so you can find inspiration when needed.

Have you ever had feelings of doubt in your abilities and feeling like a fraud, or have you ever asked yourself what am I doing here, thinking I do not belong here? Did you know that there is a term for that? Impostor syndrome, also known as the impostor phenomenon, was a term coined in 1978 and describes the feelings of self-doubt, uncertainty about your talent and abilities, and a sense of unworthiness that does not align with what others think about you. Some people experience impostor syndrome and some do not if you do acknowledge them feelings build connections wire perfection you belong here.

Essential Needs Support

Going to college while balancing work, families, and other priorities is a challenge! Lee College has many supportive services and people to help meet your essential needs while you are going to college.

The Student Resource and Advocacy Center has support for students who need assistance with Childcare, Groceries, Gas, and connections to community service providers who can help with other needs. You can visit the SRAC in the Student Center or reach out via email at basicneeds@lee.edu.

Funding is available to assist students with childcare costs. Lee College has an on-campus market to support students with groceries, hygiene items, and baby supplies. Gas cards are also available to assist students with transportation costs.

Mentorability

Finding a mentor during this time can be extremely beneficial to you not only with your academics but for your mental health as well. Finding someone who can help pick you up when you are overwhelmed and encourage you to finish strong is important. While finding a mentor is important, what is even more important is making sure you are mentorable. Be vulnerable with your mentor and honest about where you are academically and mentally. Always respect and value your mentor's time and learn to be open to advice and constructive criticism. A mentorship does not necessarily have to be a formal affair. You could build a professional relationship with a peer mentor, advisor, or professor with whom you have a connection, or you become friends with another student who can show you the ropes.

Finances

As a college student, it is important to learn how to manage your money so that you can graduate from Lee College with little to no debt as possible

Managing your money can alleviate financial stressors that can impact your well-being and academics. Lee College has an online scholarship system with many scholarship opportunities. You must track how much money you spend daily for a week, add everything up, create a budget for yourself for the following week, and review it often for instance, you may decide that you will only eat out twice a week to save money.

What is FERPA?

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that affords parents the right to have access to their children’s education records, the right to seek to have the records amended, and the right to have some control over the disclosure of personally identifiable information from the education records. When a student turns 18 years old, or enters a postsecondary institution at any age, the rights under FERPA transfer from the parents to the student (“eligible student”). The FERPA statute is found at 20 U.S.C. § 1232g and the FERPA regulations are found at 34 CFR Part 99.

Remember your Cultural Wealth

As you face new challenges this semester remember to tap into all of your cultural wealth to keep you going.

- Aspirational Capital: What are your hopes and dreams?
- Familial Capital: What network of extended family and community can draw upon?
- Social Capital: Who are the peers and other people in your social circle that provide important connections and support?
- Linguistic Capital: What are the different languages and communication methods do you have?
- Navigational Capital: What skills do you come with to help you navigate a higher education institution?
- Resistance Capital: What is your history of social justice, or standing up on your principles?

Building a professional network

At this point in your educational journey at Lee College, start thinking about and building your professional network these are individuals who will help you achieve your career goals also, these individuals do not have to be at Lee College exclusively consider attending a professional conference from your discipline where you can meet others who inspire you.

Consider an internship where you can widen your professional network with individuals in your desired profession and finally connect with a faculty member who can serve as a mentor and connect you with other professionals and other activities that will widen your network.

Use your growth mindset!

Individuals who believe their talents can be developed through hard work, good strategies, and input from others have a growth mindset. They tend to achieve more than those with a more fixed mindset, who believe their talents are innate gifts. This is because they worry less about looking smart and put more energy into learning.

10 ways to develop a growth mindset are:

- Identify your own mindset
- Look at your own improvements
- Review the success of others
- Seek feedback
- Harness the power of 'yet'
- Learn something new
- Make mistakes
- Be kind to yourself
- Look at examples
- Set realistic goals

Week 30: _____

Self-Care

As the middle of your first semester of college approaches, the stress of academic work and being away from home may also be increasing. Be sure to take time this month to regularly practice self-care.

Self-care looks very different for everyone. For some, it may be cooking a meal, journaling, going for a long walk around campus, calling a friend or family member, or even bingeing your favorite show. Whatever it looks like for you, be sure to take a little time for yourself this month to recharge and rejuvenate.

Courage is a word that is overlooked a lot these days and is lightly sprinkled in our daily conversations. Change is sometimes taken well by some; however, some may not take it well, affecting their functioning in daily activities. If so, know that we are here to help manage the feelings that are blocking you from your new normal.

Create a stress-relieving toolbox

College has a lot of moving pieces to juggle and even your most zen friends can get frazzled when exam time rolls around. Know what activities best help you to de-stress and recharge at the busiest times of your semester. Whether it's reading a fun book, talking to friends, listening to YouTube videos of falling rain, or taking things out on a punching bag, you need to be able to release that energy so you can refocus.

Ask for help. On a personal level, if you're having any trouble at all, reach out and ask someone for help. If you're feeling anxious or depressed, go see the campus counseling center. If you're having trouble paying for college, talk to your school's financial aid office. Don't isolate yourself and don't try to solve it alone. There are people that can, and want, to help you. You just must seek them out!

Stay on Track

Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today. Work should come before pleasure. Manage your time effectively; set up a timeline for getting work completed in each of your courses. Set aside adequate time for homework, study, sleep, relationships, and work. You need not always finish every task all at once. Remember, you can write a 365-page book every year if you only write one page per day.

Break your large tasks down into manageable subtasks. Large jobs can rarely be completed in one setting. Tackle small parts of a large task each day; avoid cramming. Remember the fable of the tortoise and the hare; slow and steady is often better than jackrabbit sprints.

Week 38:

Study Smart

Get a study buddy: Making friends with the people in your class is helpful for multiple reasons. If you're sick and need someone to take notes for you, you'll have someone you can rely on. And when it comes time to study for exams, you can cross-reference your notes to gain a larger understanding of the material. A study group or buddy is a great way to level up your study habits. If you understand the material better than your classmate, explaining a concept to them has been proven to help you learn the material even better than just studying it alone.

Another way to get the maximum amount of studying done is to find a favorite study nook. Some people like to be in a busy central building with noise around them and plenty of opportunities to chat with friends and take a break. Other people need the absolute quiet and solitude of the library stacks in order to be able to focus. Figure out how you work best and seek out a spot that you can rely on whenever you need to do work.

Professional Communication

Professional communication refers to the various forms of speaking, writing, and responding in and out of the classroom, whether virtually or in person, identifying personal and preferred titles and context for how to address your faculty, staff, and administrators.

When addressing someone via e-mail, you should include their salutation, a body, and a signature line for example, some professors prefer to be called doctor or professor.

Always be present when communicating via online meetings and try to avoid distracting backgrounds if possible.

Navigator Recreation

Most recreation at Lee College is located in the gymnasium and can all be taken advantage of with your Lee College Student ID. Open gym hours vary between activities. In the gymnasium, you will also find a completely free-weight room, racquetball courts, and a swimming pool operated by the Lee College Wellness Center. Not looking to break a sweat? Stop by the game room in the Student Center and choose from a selection of games..

If you're looking for a little friendly competition, Lee College intramurals provide several chances to compete in leagues and tournaments each semester. See the calendar above for schedules or contact the Recreation office in the gymnasium foyer for information. All students, staff, and faculty are eligible to participate. Club Sports are less formal than varsity sports, more competitive than intramurals, and aim to provide the perfect middle ground for Lee College student-athletes.

Friday	Saturday/Sunday

Cafe '34 provides many great food items for Lee College students, faculty, and staff.

We have a cafeteria-style restaurant where we feature different entree and vegetable choices daily. We also have a taqueria. There is also a grill side, featuring hamburgers, chicken tenders, chicken salads, french fries, onion rings, and many more delicious items, all made to order.

We are continually trying new items. We invite you to come and check us out.

Self-Reflection

Semester Reflection

You finished the semester! Now that the semester has come to a close, take some time to sit back and reflect on how it went academically did your study habits work do you need to adjust your time management for the spring semester to improve academically, or maybe you are finishing the semester strong and if so keep it up if you feel that you may need a little more help staying on top of your academics and understanding the content be sure to check out the student resources on campus.

Take a few minutes to reflect on everything you achieved.

Which class did you do the best in?

Which class was the hardest for you?

---

Who is someone you made a connection with?

---

What self-care activities helped you control your stress?

---

What goals do you have for next semester?

Workplace Etiquette

You're planning to work while in school, be sure you know the norms and expectations for the job. Be sure you are always on time, completing tasks, being a team player, embracing diversity, and meeting workload expectations. If you aren't sure of something, be sure to ask for help. Employment while you are in college could lead to future references and employment opportunities once you graduate. Having a strong work ethic and being a good example to your colleagues is important. You're representing yourself, your family, and Lee College.

Former students/employees, current students/employees, and Lee College community friends are eligible for membership.

Benefits include:

- A network of professional contacts. Recent graduates may find it beneficial to join the alumni association and connect with previous graduates and community friends who can offer career advice and job leads.
- Career Services Assistance, including access to job postings, résumé reviews, webinars, networking events, career counseling and career fairs.
- Campus Benefits, including Library privileges, free admittance to all home games, membership to the Wellness Center and performances at the PAC.

End of year reflection activity

When you engage in self-reflection, you build the ability to look at yourself from a slight distance. With self-reflection, you can look at yourself with interest, curiosity, and inquiry, particularly when exploring our thoughts, behaviors, and emotions.

Take a few minutes to look back on all the things you have accomplished. Try answering some of these questions:

What were the top 3 things you learned this year?

---

What was your most memorable activity this year?

---

---

---

What advice would you give to students who'll be in this subject next year?

---

---

---

What is one thing you achieved this year that you will remember for the rest of your life?

---

---

What is something you accomplished this year that you are proud of?

---

---

What was your favorite activity or event this year?

---

---

What is one thing you learned about yourself this year?

---

---

What is one way you surprised yourself this year?

---

---

What was the biggest challenge you overcame this year?

---

---

How did you grow as a student this year? Think about your skills, study habits, and mindset.
