Karen Guthmiller states “We are creating all these Pathways that sometimes do not allow for these types of important courses. I think that we need to keep in mind the greater need for preparing students for the real world. I get concerned with us saying you can’t take hours outside of your Pathway when some of us do not even fit in our path. This is a very important class. I think we need to step back and say are we now teaching students to be good stewards or a holistic approach liberally understanding all the things they will need to have the skill sets when they go into the world. I think that sometimes we are on the FastTrack and these types of classes get lost. Our Institutional Core needs to be respected and not worked around, like it is right now.”
