

Alaska's Northern Lights

Nothing can prepare you for your first sighting of the Northern Lights. The way they swirl through star-studded skies. The neon colors. The majestic silence. And the same goes for Alaska's winter landscape. The Last Frontier state is a wildlife wonderland — wolf packs, grizzlies, foxes, and hares roam free while eagles soar overhead — and from electric blue glaciers to cinematic fjords, Mother Nature has truly outdone herself (no wonder Santa chose to live here; we wish we had, too).

AVERAGE TEMPERATURES & WHAT TO PACK

Average Temperature: 29 °F (-2°C) and a low near 18°F (-8°C)

When you're deciding what to bring on your trip, we have a few suggestions for you.

Temperatures in February and March can be quite cold. It is strongly recommended that you dress appropriately for Arctic weather. Winter jackets, waterproof shoes, gloves, and/or scarves are all items that will help you remain comfortable in the cold weather.

In regards to clothing, think of layers. It's much easier to maintain a level of comfort if you can add or remove a layer at a time, especially if you're traveling to a destination where the temperature can vary widely. So always bring a light jacket or sweater; fleece or wool is best. We recommend avoiding cotton sweaters or jackets as they won't keep you warm if wet.

Comfortable footwear is crucial. Make sure you bring a pair of shoes that fit well and give you the necessary support. If you decide to purchase new shoes for your trip, we suggest you wear them a number of times before you leave to break them in. Your feet will thank you.

Pack anything that could leak in plastic bags or a waterproof case for your toiletries. In addition, you might want to bring a washcloth or two. Not all hotels provide them.

If you take prescription medication, make sure to bring enough for your entire tour plus a few additional days in the original prescription containers. Medication should be packed in your carry-on bag, never your checked luggage, in case your luggage is delayed. You don't want to be without your medication. You could also bring extra medication in a separate bag in case any gets lost.

In general, we recommend not packing anything of value in your checked bag.

You'll want to take pictures of everything, so make sure to bring a camera as well as extra memory cards and batteries for your entire trip. If you bring a video camera, don't forget an extra battery, plus a charger. Be sure to pack chargers and cords for all your electronic equipment.

It's also a good idea to bring a travel alarm clock, a travel sewing kit, a portable scale to weigh luggage, and some hand sanitizer for when soap and water aren't readily available.

If you are traveling with a companion, we suggest dividing the contents of your suitcase with them; that way, if one bag is delayed, some of your belongings are still available to you both.

If that is not an option for you, you could put a change of clothing in your carry-on if there's room. That will also give you something to wear if your checked luggage is delayed.

Last but certainly not least, leave room! You'll need it to fit all the souvenirs you want to bring home.
